INTRODUCTION.

J. E. Wessely ("Kunstübende Frauen," Leipzig, 1884), E. Guhl ("Die Frauen in der Kunstgeschichte," Berlin, 1858), M. Vachon ("La femme dans l'art," Paris, 1893), and others have written of woman in art. But they have told us mainly of women painters and sculptors, and it remained for a woman to show what her sex has done in a field barely touched upon by those authors, and not appealing quite so strongly to the imagination, perhaps, as the "higher" walks of art—namely, engraving.

Henrietta Louisa Koenen, first wife of J. Philip van der Kellen, collected engravings, etchings, and lithographs by women from 1848 until the time of her death in March, 1861. Her husband, who was director of the Print Room at Amsterdam from 1876 until 1896 (and entered upon that office again in 1898), continued to add to the collection until 1881. In 1884, these prints being offered for sale, a catalogue was issued by Frederick Muller & Co. of Amsterdam, with the title “Les femmes artistes. Catalogue d'une collection unique de dessins, gravures et eaux-fortes composés ou exécutés par des femmes.” The main and chief portion of this collection was purchased by a member of the Grolier Club, who, in May, 1900, presented his large collection of prints to the New York Public Library, and these prints by women passed with the rest into the possession of that institution. The present catalogue is a full list of all the prints in this special collection, a selection from which, limited by lack of wall-space, has been placed on exhibition at the Grolier Club. Although there is some earlier work, such as that by Diana Ghisi, and a little from the later years of the 19th century, yet the collection consists mainly of engravings by women of the 18th century, and offers a very interesting view of the activity of the women engravers who flourished between, say, 1700 and 1815.

One is naturally struck by the large number here represented, but more surprising, even, is the high percentage of professionals. The dilettante is perhaps a natural outcome of those times, for engraving was fashionable then; but to find women making a business of engraving in a century which one is not apt to associate with ideas of the emancipation of woman, will, no doubt, be a novel experience to many, and may be of interest to the student of womankind, as well as to the historian of art in its various phases. Nor do we find here only amateurish prettiness or commonplace commercialism, but merit as well, and often talent.

In looking over the names of these women engravers, we find the artist-family conspicuously in evidence. There are the Preisslers, Massards, Moittes, Rousselets, Tassaerts, and many others. Sometimes two or more families of engravers are related, as the Coinys and Ozannes. A noteworthy case is found in the Tardieu family, which intermarried with the Horthemels, Belles, Cochins, Rousselets, Bernards, and Barons,—all engraver-families,—so that the resultant genealogy is quite complicated.

In various instances the significant note "pupil and wife of So-and-so" will be found in the biographical sketches of these women artists, as in the case of C. F. Beauvarlet and not a few others. Here the scholar has become the helpmate for life, and sometimes even carries on the business after the husband's death, signatures such as that of the "Widow Bonnefoy" being often found. Or a daughter has inherited more or less of the father's talent, and renders him material assistance, as in the case of Magdalena de Passe, Anna F. Preissler, Mademoiselle Massard, Rose Angélique Moitte, and Elisabetha B. Schmetterling.

Often these wives and daughters have signed but few plates, and in some of these cases, at least, whatever talent there was became subordinated to that of the chief supporter of the family, and was expended in patient toil on the less important details of his work.

Under such conditions, the influence of environment is apt to be more or less strongly felt, and the pupil and wife (or daughter) sometimes acquires the style of her master to a remarkable degree. Thus Maria Catharina Prestel is said to have quite her husband's touch in her aquatint work, an interesting example of which is in the present collection.

The guiding and improving hand of the teacher has no doubt occasionally helped the struggling amateur. While the Marquise de Pompadour without doubt did engrave the series of gems after Le Guay, yet the skepticism seems not unjust which gives some credit to aid from others, an aid which is, in fact, avowed in the inscription on her large plate of Rodogune (frontispiece for the tragedy of Corneille): "retouched by C. N. Cochin."

A remarkably large number of the women who followed engraving as a business with measurable success lived in Paris. But the few really prominent ones—both engravers and painter-etchers—are not limited to one nationality. Caroline Watson, who executed noteworthy portraits in stipple when that art had its golden age, was a London artist; Louise M. Horthemels was born in Utrecht; Marie Ellenrieder, an etcher of fine feeling and technical ability, was a native of Constance; Madame O'Connell was a German who married a Belgian; and Italy and other countries are also represented. There were certain publications that seem to have had special attraction for the commercial woman engraver: many of the outline engravings in C. P. Landon's "Vie et œuvres des peintres les plus célèbres," and of the plates in Buffon's "Histoire naturelle," are signed by women.

Prominent among amateurs was E. S. Chezon, a remarkably versatile person, a sort of "Admirable Crichton" among women, who showed much of the professional touch in her work. A similar universal genius we find in Anna Maria van Schurman, who began as an infant prodigy and seemed to show talent for everything she undertook.

In the dilettante class royal and noble ladies are well represented. While in some cases there is absolutely nothing but a name of high degree to recommend the ill-advised excursion into this branch of art, in others a decidedly artistic feeling and a more than respectable mastery of technique are found, as witness the case of the Archduchess Maria Anna of Austria.

All the recognized authorities on prints and artists, as well as numerous biographical works, have been consulted in the compilation of this catalogue. But many of the artists here represented are not mentioned in any of the reference-books; others are entered as men, or confused with other artists of the same name, or credited with work which they did not execute. One of the objects of the catalogue will be attained if it assists in clearing up any of these disputed questions.

ELISABETH, PRINCESS OF ENGLAND, AND LANDGRAVINE OF HESSE-HOM-BURG.

Born May 22, 1770; died at Frankfort-on-the-Main Jan. 10, 1840. She "drew with correctness and taste," and several series of prints after her designs were issued: "The birth and triumph of Cupid," 24 plates by P. W. Tomkins, 1795, new editions ("Birth and Triumph of Love") in 1796, 1822, 1823 ("a fine play of fancy and wit"); "Cupid turned volunteer," by Gardiner (1804); "A series of etchings representing the power and progress of genius" (1806), 24 etchings by herself; "The New Doll," and "The Seasons."

130 A woman driving Cupid. Eliza inv^t & sculp^t

FISCHER, MARIA ANNA.

An engraver of Vienna, sister of Joseph Fischer, born 1785, and still living in Vienna in 1837 as the widow of the "Hofzeichnemeister" G. J. Felsenberg. She executed original as well as reproductive etchings. Among her prints are two series, one of 9 plates: "Meine ersten Nadel-Versuche" (1804, after Bremberg, Dietrich, and others); and another of 6: "Suite de six paysages dessinés par Madame la Pr. Therese Jablonowska," both in quarto. The first five prints listed here possibly form part of the first series.

142 Landscape: hills in the background, with a castle at the highest point; two figures in the foreground. Mari Fischer. Etching.

143 View of a hilly valley; to the left, a castle on a cliff. Etching.

144 A road winding along a rocky shore; on the left, a man driving two cows. Maria Fischer. Etching.

145 A man with three cows on the bank of a small sheet of water; in the background, trees and the roof of a house. Maria Fischer. Etching.

146 A hilly country; in the valley in the foreground are five figures. Etching.

147 Landscape: in the foreground, two riders watering their horses, to the left some figures crossing a bridge; on the shore, a house surrounded by trees; in the background, a high hill with two ruins. Gravé a L'eau forte d'apres D. Boissiere par M. Fischer. Etching.

148 Landscape: in the foreground, a boat with four figures; on the shore beyond, ruins and figures; in the background, a building on a small hill. Gravé a L'eau forte d'apres D. Boissiere par Marie Fischer 1808. Etching.

149 View of a river or canal, with five cows standing in the foreground; to the right, some sail-boats, and on the bank to the left, a church. A. Cuijp pinx. Maria Fischer fec. 1810. Etching.

150 Hamlet of Marie Antoinette. Vue du Hameau de la Reine dans les Jardins du petit Trianon à Versailles . . . dessiné d'apré nature par la Comtesse de Würben, gravée par Marie Fischer. Etching.

FLANDRES, MARIE, COMTESSE DE.

151 A village lane. [1875?] M. F. [monogram].
Etching.

FOLKEMA, ANNA.

Miniature-painter; sister of the engraver Jacob Folkema; born in 1695, died in 1768 in her 73d year, "as an artist of reputation"; painted portraits and engraved some plates. Among the latter are a set in the book entitled: "Gebouwen, gezichten en oudheden der Stad Amsterdam," published in Haarlem in 1741 and again in 1744.

152 Two children drinking out of a bowl. Anna Folkema 1748. Line.

153 Two children and a cat lying on a grassy bank. A. Folkema 1748. Line.

The two preceding plates are said to be after Madame de Pompadour.

154 An assemblage of bewigged gentlemen around a table, with their hands raised in affirmation of an oath. Above, on clouds, are two female figures, one with a palm-branch, the other with a horn of plenty. *J: Folkema In: 1723.
A: Folkema sculp.* Above: III. Deel. Pag: 129. Line.

On the back of the print is a note in Dutch, written in ink: "Digten op de geslooote Vreede binnen Utrecht op den 11 April Aº 1713 geteekend."

155 A warrior drawing his sword, beside a female figure with shield and torch. In the valley below are armed hosts; Peace, with a palm-branch, is hovering in the sky. J: Folkema In: 1723. A: Folkema sculp: Above: III. Deel. Pag: 154.

The two preceding plates are evidently taken from a book, and seem both to refer to the Peace of Utrecht.

FONBONNE, ANNE.

This is perhaps the daughter—referred to by Nagler—of Quirin Fonbonne, a Dutch engraver who worked in Paris about 1720–34.

156 A statuette of Cupid seated on a lion. Le même Amour vu de l'autre côté. L. S. Adam del. Anne Fonbonne Sculp. In upper right corner: 9. Line.

This evidently forms part of a series.

FOURNIER, MADAME FÉLICIE, née MONSALDY.

Born 1797, died 1879, wife of N. A. Fournier, an engraver. Besides engraving zoölogical subjects, like her husband, she executed also portraits for books, vignettes, and fashion plates.

157 Picture of a young woman; half-length. Marckl del. 1838. Félicie Fournier née Monsaldy Sc. Stipple.

158 Portrait; bust. Newton. M^{me} Fournier sc. Publié par Furne, Paris. Stipple.

FREYBERG, ELECTRINE, FREIFRAU
VON, née STUNTZ.

A noted artist, daughter and pupil of the landscape-painter Johann Stuntz, born in Strassburg, March 24, 1797. She was in Rome 1821-22, and became a member of the Academy of S. Luca. In 1823 she married Baron Wilhelm von Freyberg, and died in Munich, Jan. 1, 1847. As a painter she was most successful in historical subjects, her madonnas being especially praised. She executed some etchings and tried lithography.

161 Saint Cecilia. E. Stuntz. Lithograph.

162 The Virgin with the Christ-child, on clouds, surrounded by child-angels. Electrine Stuntz. Lithograph.

163 Strolling musicians. An Italian scene: a man, an old woman, and a child, at their house door, listening to the playing and singing of three young women. E. F. [monogram] geb. St. 1828. Etching.

GAILLARD, LOUISE.

Daughter of Robert Gaillard (1722-85), the engraver; flourished in Paris in the second half of the 18th century. Like her father, she engraved a number of figure subjects after Schenau and P. A. Wille.

164 View near Nantes. Vue des environs de Nantes. Paris . . . 1766. Louise Gaillard. à Paris chez les Campions . . . Line.

GAILLARD MONET, MADEMOISELLE I. M.

GAMOND, ELISA DE.

166 The Madonna della sedia. Raphael, pinxit. Elisa de Gamond, del^t. Lithograph.

GHISI, DIANA.

Painter and engraver, born in Mantua about 1530, died in Rome about 1590. She was the daughter of Giovanni Battista Ghisi, and the pupil of her brother Giorgio. She married the architect and sculptor Francesco da Volterra, and hence called herself Diana Mantuana civis Volaterana. "The greater part of her plates," says Nagler, " bears the address of Horatius Pacificus, and these are the good impressions. Later, I. B. de Rossi obtained the plates, and still later Carlo Losi took impressions." Bartsch lists forty-six pieces by her.

167 The Martyrdom of Saint Catherine. Romae Antonij Lafreri Formis. 1582. à Paulo Gratiiano quesita.

" This plate," says Bartsch, " is engraved in the manner of Diana Ghisi; but it is not quite certain that it is her work." The measurements given by Bartsch and Le Blanc do not agree, and are little below the figures found for the impression here catalogued, which measures $21\frac{7}{8} \times 16\frac{7}{8}$ inches.

GIRARD, LOUISE.

Wife of the engraver François Girard (1787-1870). She executed a number of engravings after Delaroche, Scheffer (both her husband's friends), Ingres, etc., and exhibited at the Salon.

168 Ave Maria! Sassoferato pinx M^{me} Girard sculp^t. A Paris, chez F. Girard. Stipple.

169 Virgin and Christ-child, with an angel playing on the lute, after Ary Scheffer. A. S. [monogram] 1836. M^{me} Girard sculp^t. Etching.

170 The little sister. La petite Soeur. Peint par H. Dupont. Gravé par M^e Girard. Paris . . . Stipple.

According to Beraldì, this is a portrait of Miss Juliette Lenormand; it was exhibited in the Salon of 1837.

171 Gloria in excelsis Deo et in terra. M^{me} Girard del. et sculp. Paris . . . Stipple.

GIRARDIN, PAULINE.

172 A bouquet of flowers. Hibiscus et Pastemone.
6. Pauline Girardin. Paris, Goupil & C^{ie} . . .
Lithograph, colored.

This evidently forms part of a series.

GUYOT, LOUISE.

Born 1820 (?). According to Beraldi, her father engraved the illustrations in "Album des Théâtres, par MM. Guyot et Debacq" (1837), a few of the blocks being signed by the daughter.

181 Les Huguenots. Acte II, Scène I^{re}. L.G.
 Wood-engraving.

182 Les Huguenots. Acte V, Scène III. L.G.
Wood-engraving.

Both of these engravings have the inscription : Academie Royale de Musique in the center of the ornamental border, above.

HAUSSARD, CATHERINE.

The engraver Jean Haussard (born 1696) had two daughters who engraved : Élisabeth, whose specialty was the engraving of those cartouches on which the titles of maps were inscribed, and who engraved figures of birds after De Sève for Buffon's "Histoire naturelle," and Catherine, who also signed bird-pieces after De Sève, and some portraits.

183 Portrait: Sauveur François Morand, Chirurgien de Paris, . . . Dulcis Amicitiae pignus oblatum à D. Guerin, Chirurgo Parisiensi, 1749.

KAROLINA MARIA, ARCHDUCHESS OF AUSTRIA, AND LATER QUEEN OF NAPLES.

Born Aug. 13, 1752, died Sept. 8, 1814, daughter of Emperor Francis IV and Maria Theresia. In 1767 she sent a drawing to the Academy in Vienna, and received the diploma of honor.

219 Young girl playing with chicks. Dessiné et gravé par L'Arch^{sse} Charlotte d'Autriche 1767. Line.

KAUFFMANN, MARIA ANNA
ANGELICA.

Daughter and pupil of Joseph Kauffmann, a Swiss portrait-painter, born at Coire, Switzerland, Oct. 30, 1741, died in Rome, Nov. 5, 1807. Her talent for painting and music was shown at an early age, and she studied in Italy during 1757-65. About 1767 she came to England, where she won a brilliant reputation, and where she rose high in royal and popular favor. An unhappy marriage with an impostor was annulled by divorce; in 1781 she married the painter Antonio Zucchi and returned to Italy. Comment on Angelica Kauffmann has varied from fulsome eulogy to severe criticism; the truth should be sought between the two extremes. She executed a number of etchings, which seem to show the same mixture of strength and weakness, of grace and mannerism, as her paintings.

220 Armida crowning Rinaldo with flowers. Angelica Kauffman fecit. Etching.

“First state, before aquatint.”

221 Half-length portrait of a woman, with a child holding an apple. A. K. f. Etching.

KERKHOVE, LOUISE VAN DE.

Sister of Frédéric van de Kerkhove (1862-73), the artist prodigy to whom A. Siret devoted a volume ("L'enfant de Bruges," Paris, 1876). She was born about 1861, and painted small landscapes like her brother.

223 Landscape: water in foreground; shore with trees. H. $\frac{1}{16}$ in.; w. $3\frac{3}{8}$ in. Louise V. D. K. 76 [reversed]. Above, on the right: 19. Etching.

224 Landscape: trees on a sloping bank. H. $4\frac{1}{8}$; w. $1\frac{5}{16}$ in. Louise V. D. K. 77. Underneath, on the right: 20. Etching.

225 Landscape: a body of water with a flat shore, dotted with houses and trees. H. $\frac{5}{16}$; w. $4\frac{7}{8}$ in. Louise V. D. K. 77. Below, on the right, 21.

226 Landscape: water, with a boat tied to a post; on the right is a small figure on the bank; in the background, a large castle-like building. H. $3\frac{9}{16}$; w. $5\frac{1}{4}$ in. Louise Van de Kerkhove d'après mon frère Fritz 1877. Below, on the right: 23. Etching.

The preceding four etchings evidently form part of a series.

KLAUBER, CATHARINA.

According to Le Blanc, this engraver worked in Augsburg in the second half of the 18th century. Nagler speaks of a series of ornaments in 98 plates, drawn by B. Göz after Godefrid, and engraved by her.

227 Portrait: Christoph v. Beaumont, Erzbischof v. Paris . . . Klauber Cath. Sc. Aug. d'. Line.

KLEIN, STÉPHANIE DANIEL-.

See DANIEL-KLEIN.

KOBELL, ANNA.

Perhaps related to Wilhelm Kobell (1766–1855), who worked skilfully in aquatint and was the son of Ferdinand Kobell. She executed some aquatints and etchings.

228 Still-life: fruit and dead birds. W. van Leen inv. 1812. A. Kobell f. aqua tinto. Aquatint, colored.

KOKER, ANNA MARIA DE.

An amateur, who flourished in the second half of the 17th century. She executed a dozen or more etchings, mostly landscapes. Kramm says that her portrait was painted by Gerard Terburg and engraved by H. Bary.

229 Landscape: a road, on which a figure is walking, passes two cottages under trees on the left. A. M. D. [monogram] Koker fecit. Etching.

KRAUS, JOHANNA SYBILLA, née KÜSEL.

See KÜSEL.

KÜSEL, JOHANNA SYBILLA.

Engraver; born in Augsburg in 1646, pupil of her father Melchior, married the engraver Johann Ulrich Kraus, and died in 1717. Le Blanc catalogues 102 pieces by her. Her elder sister, Johanna Christina, and a third sister, Magdalena, were also engravers, and executed a number of illustrations to the Old Testament.

230 Venus. Johanna Sübylla Küslen fecit. Adam Elshaimer pinxit. Etching and line.

“ . . . renders the chiaroscuro of Elsheimer, in the manner of the Comte de Goudt.” Nagler and Le Blanc say that this is copied after Hollar.

231 The three Magi paying homage to the Christ-child. J. K. Line.

KÜSEL, MARIA PHILIPPINA.

232 A scene within a building; figures kneeling before a man wearing a turban, etc. Maria Philippina Küslen fecit. Line.

233 A scene in the open air, amid monumental edifices; a priest pouring oil on a woman's head, etc. Maria Philippina Küslen fe: Line.

The two preceding have been described as “ Subjects taken from the history of Israel, after Lairesse.”

LANDON, LOUISE CHARLOTTE.

See SOYER.

LANDON, PAULINE.

LE COMTE, MARGUERITE.

An amateur, born in Paris about 1719, mistress of Watelet, with whom she traveled in Italy, and with whom she subsequently lived at the Moulin-Joli, on the Seine, near Argenteuil. Here, we are told, she received an "agreeable, artistic, and select society," amid idyllic surroundings. She spent her leisure in etching butterflies and coloring them ("Suite de papillons gravés et coloriés par Madame Le Comte, des Académies de Rome, Florence, Parme et de l'Institut de Bologne, 1766"), and imitated the etchings of Rembrandt.

238 Copy of Rembrandt's "Obelisk" (Bartsch 227, Blanc 328, Middleton 324). Marguerite meuniere du moulin joli sc. 1754. Etching.

LE DAULCEUR, LOUISE, née DE MONTIGNY.

An amateur etcher who lived in the second half of the 18th century, and executed plates after Edme Bouchardon, C. N. Cochin, Gravelot, and others.

Wife of King Henry IV of France, born in 1573, died in 1642.

294 Bust of a young person: portrait of Marie de Medici. Maria Medici F. MDLXXXVII.
Wood-engraving.

This print and one other are usually attributed to the queen, which Le Blanc considers a "grave error." Chatto does not believe that a girl of fourteen executed this engraving. Robert-Dumesnil (vol. v, p. 66) cites a note preserved with this print in the National Library at Paris, which states that the engraving was executed by the queen, who presented it to Ph. de Champagne when he was painting her portrait.

PRESTEL, MARIA CATHARINA, née
HÖLL.

Born in Nuremberg in 1744, died in London in 1794; painter and engraver, wife of Johann Theophilus Prestel (1739-1808), whom she aided in his work, as Nagler says, "with unexampled patience," until his moods and insults drove her away and she went to London with her daughter in 1783 (1786?). Her husband worked in various manners, and became noted especially for his fine copies of drawings; her daughter Catherine and her sons also aided the father in his work.

375 A young woman in conflict with a man crouching on a dragon. After J. Ligozzi. Aquatint; printed in brown and gold.

376 An old woman reading. After a drawing by Gerard Dow. 1780. Crayon manner; printed in red.

377 Three men with vessels before a king on his throne : "A king preparing a sacrifice." After A. Bloemart. Aquatint ; printed in light brown.

378 A man and woman resting by the side of a road bordered by trees. After H. Sachtleben. Aquatint.

These prints are accompanied by a letter in German, dated London, August 24, 1792, written by her to Johann Friedrich Frauenholz, art-dealer of Nuremberg, which gives interesting information concerning the work of Sherwin, Sharp, Earlam, Green, etc. To this is added a bill for prints by herself.

QUARRY, REGINA CATHARINA, née SCHOENECKER.

Born in 1762, in Frankfort-on-the-Main, where she studied under J. T. Prestel, in whose manner she executed several noteworthy plates. In 1786 she married Quarry, an English teacher of languages in Frankfort.

379 A Dutch town ; in the foreground is a tower ; in the background, to the right, a bridge. After A. Rademaker. Imitation of a sepia drawing. Aquatint ; printed in brown.

380 A marine, with sailing vessels. After Vitrunga. Aquatint.

381 A body of water with an irregular shore on which are two figures; to the left, ruins or cliffs. After A. van Everdingen. AVE. Aquatint; printed in brown.

These prints are accompanied by two letters in German, dated Frankfort, 1792, written by her to Frau-enholz of Nuremberg, and relating to her work.

QUESTIERS, CATHARINA.

A poet who flourished in Amsterdam in the second half of the 17th century, and whom Vondel called a second Sappho. She married Joannes de Hoest on May 11, 1664.

382 A young man kneeling before a young woman: a plate from "Van de Koddige Olipodrigo," Amsterdam, 1655. C. Questiers. Etching.

Dessiné par Ph. L. Parizeau. Gravé par M^{le} Sainctelette. Above, on the right: N^o 3 du III^e Cah. Stipple, crayon manner.

This is evidently a plate from her "Principes du dessin," d'après Parizeau, cited by Portalis and Beraldi.

SANDRART, SUSANNA MARIA VON.

Born in Nuremberg, Aug. 10, 1658, died Dec. 20, 1716, daughter and pupil of Jakob von Sandrart (1630-1708), not of Johann Jakob, as is erroneously stated by most authorities. She painted in oils and etched. In 1683 she married the painter J. P. Auer, and, after his death, the bookseller M. Endter of Nuremberg in 1695.

411 Portrait, bust directed slightly to the right, in a border of flowers: Gabrielis Carola Patina. Susanna Maria Jacobi Sandrarti Filia fecit. Line.

412 Portrait, bust directed slightly to the left, in an oval border containing the name Gabrielis Carola Patina. Underneath are seven lines of inscription, and then Susanna Maria Jacobi Sandrarti filia effigiem hanc fecit A° 1682. Line.

SAUGRAIN, ELISE.

Born 1753, pupil of Moreau le jeune, "whose manner as an engraver she seized so perfectly," say Portalis and Beraldi, "that it seems difficult to admit that the master did not retouch the plates which bear her signature. Moreau exhibited a portrait drawing of Mademoiselle Saugrain at the Salon of 1785."

416 View near Paris. Vuë des environs de Paris. Women washing clothes on the bank; beyond is a half-ruined mill. L. G. Moreau pinxit 1780. Elise Saugrain Sculp. J. M. Moreau direx 1782. . . . Line.

SCHMETTERLING, ELISABETHA BARBARA.

Engraver, born Nov. 30, 1804, in Amsterdam; daughter and pupil of the painter Joseph Adolf Schmetterling. During 1820-29, says Immerzeel, she executed various plates not without merit, among them some for the "Nederlandsche Muzen-Almanak."

Subsequently she paid more attention to miniature-painting. Her sister Cristiana Josepha (born Dec. 19, 1796, died March 18, 1840) drew flowers and fruits in water-colors, and taught in that art.

420 A boy blowing soap-bubbles. The little physicist. After Netscher. Elisabetha Schmetterling sc. 1822. Line.

421 A young woman writing a letter. Terburg pinx. Elisabetha Schmetterling sc. 1824. Line and stipple.

SCHÖPFER, FRANCISKA.

Miniature-painter, born 1770 in Mannheim, where she studied at the academy. She subsequently went to Bamberg and then to Munich, where she enjoyed much success and became Bavarian court painter. Besides numerous portraits, she painted a number of copies of famous pictures. Le Blanc catalogues five plates by her.

422 Holy Family. peint par van der verf. Gravé par Françoise Schöpfer à Manh: 1792 . . . Stipple; printed in brown ink.

Accompanied by a letter written by her to Herr Boerner, Munich, Oct. 25, 1827, relating to a lithographic copy of her portrait of the crown prince.

SCHREFL, ANNA VON.

Hungarian amateur, born in 1769.

423 Sappho recording the glory of the Hungarians.
Sculp. Anna de Schrefl. Patriota Hungara.
XIV. annos nata. Budae 1783. Mixed.

Dedicated to Francis, Count Eszterházy.

SCHURMAN, ANNA MARIA VAN.

Dutch poetess, theologian, and artist, "the wonder of her time, the glory of her sex," born Nov. 5, 1607, in Cologne, died May 4, 1678. Her knowledge of languages was extensive and thorough; she was versed in the sciences and theology as well as in music; and, lastly, she practised painting, engraving, and etching. Among the plates from her hand is a portrait of herself.

424 Portrait: Gisbertus Voetius . . . 1647. A. M.

425 Portrait: Regerus De Graaf. Delphis Medicinae Doctor. Line.

From Graaf's works (Amsterdam, 1686). Attributed to A. M. Schurman.

SCHWARZENBERG, PAULINE KAROLINE IRIS, FÜRSTIN.

Daughter of Ludwig Engelbert, Duke of Arenberg; born Sept. 2, 1774, burned in Paris, July 1, 1810, at the ball given in honor of the marriage of Napoleon with Marie Louise. On May 25, 1794, she was married to Fürst Joseph Johann Nepomuk Schwarzenberg. She was an amateur who drew and etched. Le Blanc lists two series of views in Bohemia by her, 16 plates each, published in 1814 and 1815.

426 The bridge and pond of Rosenberg. Le Pont et l'Etang de Rosenberg. P. S. N° I. Etching.

SEIDLER, LOUISE CAROLINE
SOPHIE.

Painter, born in Jena, May 15, 1792; studied at the Munich Academy and in Rome and Florence, and became court painter to the Grand Duke of Weimar. Her paintings include historical subjects and copies after the old masters. She was responsible also for an educational book ("Köpfe aus Gemälden vorzüglicher Meister nach sorgfältig auf den Originalen durchgezeichneten Umrissen in der Sammlung von Louise Seidler. Zum Gebrauch für Zeichenschüler lith. von J. J. Schmeller. Weimar, 1836"), and wrote a volume of memoirs ("Erinnerungen aus dem Leben der Malerin Louise Seidler," Berlin, 1874; 2d edition, 1875).

427 Saint Elisabeth distributing bread. Louise Seidler inv. et lith. Lithograph.

After her own painting.

Before the title.

SILVESTRE, SUZANNE.

Nagler and Le Blanc say that this artist was born in 1794, in which case she could not have been the daughter of Israel Silvestre (1621-91), as is stated by some authorities. She married a Lemoine.

The following are all portraits :

433 L'Archiduc Albert Gouverneur des paysbas.
P. Rubens pinx. Susanna Silvestre Sculp.
 Line.

434 Joannes Berain Regii cubiculi designator ordinarius. J. Vivien pinx. Suzanna Silvestre effigies Sculp. an. 1711. A. Duflos Sculp. 1709.

SIMONS, MARIE ELISABETH.

A miniature-painter and engraver of Brussels, born in 1755.

437 The woman taken in adultery. . . . Gravé d'après . . . Rubens . . . par . . . Marie Elisabeth Simons.

Kramm cites a life of Rubens, published in 1774, in which it is stated that she undertook this print in that year.

438 A grotto-like court; a man with horse and plow; women drawing water and hanging up clothes, etc. Berchem pinxit. Maria Elisabeth Simons Sculp. Underneath are four lines of verse, beginning: “Contents même dans nos travaux.” Line.

SIRANI, ELISABETTA.

Painter and etcher, born in Bologna, Jan. 8, 1638, died there (poisoned) Aug. 27 or 28, 1665; daughter and pupil of Giovanni Andrea Sirani. She painted about 150 sacred subjects and portraits in her short life, and acquired a distinguished reputation. Le Blanc catalogues twelve plates by her.

439 Holy family, with Saint Elisabeth and the boy St. John. Siranus In. Etching.

"This plate is engraved by Elisabeth Sirani, whose name, placed after that of her father, appears to have been suppressed."—Bartsch, xix: 157.

440 Mater Dolorosa. . . . Elisab^{ta} Sirani F. del 1657. Etching.

SOPHIE, PRINCESS OF SAXE-COBURG-SAALFELD.

Amateur. Nagler tells us that "Count Magnis in 1799 etched a male portrait in profile and a mounted officer after her drawings," and that a plate after Raphael, representing the Madonna del Passeggiò, is signed: "Sophie del."

441 A man speaking with a woman at a wash-tub. Fait par Sophie Prinzess de Saxe. Etching.

442 Two couples standing in a landscape. Sophie fecit 1795. Etching.

443 A woman and child kneeling. Two women standing and talking. Gravé par Sophie Prinzess de Saxe. Etching.

444 A sheet of sketches and studies: two figures, eight heads, a horse, two flowers. Words and letters are scribbled on the plate, among them la jeune maman, Habilé, and Sophie. Etching.

SOYER, LOUISE CHARLOTTE, née
LANDON.

Engraver of Paris, pupil of her father, C. P. Landon. Among her works are "Modèles de meubles et de decorations intérieures . . . Dess. par Santi" (Paris, 1828, 72 plates; new edition, 1841, 86 plates) and "Modèles d'orfévrerie."

The prints here listed are all in outline:

445 The fortune-teller. M^{me} Benoist pinxit. M^{me} Soyer sc. Above: Salon de 1812 Tom I^{er} Pl. 28. Line.

446 Thesée et Ariane. M^{me} Béfert pinxit. M^{me} Soyer sc. Above: Salon de 1812 Tome I. Pl. 46. Line.

451 A group of people at a table, playing upon musical instruments. Valentin pinxit. M^{me} Soyer sc. Above: 2^e Coll. part anc. Tom. 3. Pl. 44. Line.

SPECK-STERNBURG, CHARLOTTE
HÄHNEL, BARONESSE VON.

Daughter of the Freiherr Max von Speck-Sternburg, known through his collection of paintings in Leipzig. The two prints here catalogued are after paintings in that collection.

452 A woman playing upon the lute. peint par Slingland. dessiné et lithog. par Charlotte de Speck . . . Lithograph.

453 Three young women singing, one of them with a tambourine. Gemalt von G. Honthorst 1629. Lithogr. von Charlotte von Speck-Sternburg 1833. Gedruckt von Louis Zoellner in Dresden. Lithograph.

SPIELMANN, NINA.

455 A brook bordered by trees and crossed by a bridge; three figures on the bank. Nina Spielmann feci a 1800. Etching.

SPIESS, AMALIE.

An amateur, of Nuremberg, who etched some plates. She married Johann Andreas Börner (born 1785), an amateur etcher, and is said to have died in 1830.

456 Sanct Sebald. A. Spies. Etching.

457 Portrait: Peter Vischer. Etching.

458 A young man playing on the lute. A. Spiess fec. Etching.

STELLA, ANTOINETTE BOUZONNET.

Painter and engraver, born in Lyons about 1630, died there 1676 (1682 ?). She was the daughter of a goldsmith, Etienne Bouzonnet, but, like her brother Antoine and her sisters Claudine and Françoise, she adopted the name of her uncle and teacher Jacques Stella.

459 The discovery of Romulus and Remus, with the she-wolf. C. Stella ex. C. P. Regis aux Gallerie du louvre 1677. Antonia B. Stella sculp. 1676. Line.

STELLA, CLAUDINE BOUZONNET.

Painter and engraver, born in Lyons in 1634, died in Paris in 1697; sister of Antoinette Stella, pupil of her uncle Jacques Stella. Watelet, says Nagler, awards the palm to her, among her sex, for her exact and thorough reproduction of the works of Poussin and others. "She did much etching on her plates, and used the graver only to set the whole in harmony."

460 Christ washing the feet of His disciples. N. Poussin in et pinx. Claudia Stella sculp. 3. Line.

461 Holy Family. Ego Mater pulchrae dilectionis Eccl. 24. N. Poussin Pinxit. Claudia Stella sculp et excudit . . . 1668. Line.

463 Portrait: Iacobus Stella . . . Etching.

STRAUCHER, WALBURGA.

Painter and lithographer, born in Munich in 1807, showed talent for drawing at an early age, and studied at the Royal Academy of Arts in her native town. Induced by G. Bodmer to turn her attention to lithography, she practised that art with success, her work including mainly reproductions of paintings. Her sister Maria Anna (born 1805), after painting portraits for a time, also turned to lithography. The sisters visited Venice in 1844.

464 A young woman. Gemalt von J. Stieler.
Gezeichnet v. Walb. Straucher . . . München.
 Lithograph.

This print forms Blatt III of a series. The inscription tells us that "the original is in the collection of beauties of H. M. King Ludwig I of Bavaria."

STRICK, MARIA.

A calligrapher of Bois-le-Duc, of the 17th century, we are told.

Two engraved sheets of examples of penmanship, paged:

465 38. Aux Exemplaires. Sonnet . . . Maria Strick scripcit.

466 39. Discretion est en toute personne . . . M. S.

SYSANG, JOHANNA DOROTHEA.

Engraver, daughter of the engraver J. C. Sysang (1703-54) of Leipzig; later became Madame Philipp. She married J. D. Philippin, says Nagler, who has probably taken her initials to be those of her husband. Among her works are a portrait of the physician B. L. Tralles, and plates for Klopstock's "Messias" (Halle, 1756-60).

468 Portrait: Philip Doddridge . . . J. D. Philipp geb. Sysang sc. Line.

469 Philip Doddridge . . . Gestorben zu Lissabon 1752. J. D. Philipp. geb. Sysang sc. Line.

See ROUSSELET.

TASSAERT, HENRIETTE FELICITAS.

The elder daughter of the sculptor Johann P. A. Tassaert (1729-88), wife of the "Justizrath" Robert. She was a successful portrait-painter in pastels, and executed a portrait of her father in mezzotint. Her sister Antonia (died 1787) studied drawing with her father and engraved some plates in stipple. Her brother J. J. F. Tassaert was an engraver.

474 Portrait: Friedrich Wilhelm II . . . Gemalt von J. Darbès. Geschabt von Fel: Robert geb. Tassaert. Mezzotint.

TAUNAY, MADEMOISELLE R. F.

Born in Paris, pupil of Dupin; flourished in the second half of the 18th century. "She etched some plates and finished the same with the graver," says Nagler, who records "Six plates with children, . . . after C. N. Cochin jun.," besides the two here listed.

475 View near Rome. Vue des environs de Rome . . . Gravé d'après . . . Widenhaver par . . . R. F. Taunay. Paris . . . Line.

THUNHEIM, LOUISE, GRÄFIN VON.

478 An angel hovering over a new-born infant. Eintritt in die Welt. Lithograph, colored by hand.

A note in Dutch on the back of the print tells us that this lithograph and seven others of the same size — one with the date 1822, reversed, and all unsigned — were collected in a cover, on which was written: "Thunheim (Mad. La Comtesse Louise de.) cadeau de l'artiste. L'ange-gardien. 8 pieces." No record of this Gräfin von Thunheim as an artist has been found.

TOURNAY, ELISABETH CLAIRE.

Most authorities call this engraver the wife of Nicolas Henri Tardieu (1674-1749), but Portalis and Beraldi say that she was the second wife of the engraver Jacques Nicolas Tardieu (1716-1791). She had "un agréable talent de graveur," and executed a number of plates after paintings by various artists.

TURNER, MRS. MARY, née PALGRAVE.

Second daughter of William Palgrave of Coltishall, Norfolk, wife of the botanist and antiquary Dawson Turner of Yarmouth (1775-1858). Several or all of their five daughters practised art. Mother and daughters studied under J. S. Cotman, and with him executed the etchings for the father's "Account of a tour in Normandy" (1820), signing "M. T.," "M. AT.," and "E. T." One of the daughters drew a private lithographic portrait of the father in 1816, after a painting by Davis. According to Nagler, the mother executed several etched portraits, such as those of Canova, Denon, Mrs. Siddons, etc., and some architectural studies ; 39 of her prints were in the collection of Baron Denon.

482 Portrait of Lady Maria Jackson Hooker, née Turner, "T. Phillips p." 1814. Etching.

According to a note in German penciled on the margin, only 49 impressions were taken.

483 Coltishall Church. M^{rs}. M. T. [monogram] del et Sculp^t. Etching.

484 A basket filled with melons. M. T. [monogram] after Londonio. Etching.
